A Patented Floor System for Industry and Commerce

A new system of industrial flooring for loose-laying differing very much from the already known systems and for which no comparison existed, yet, is conceived above all for the industrial and the commercial circles. This system suits particularly the re-establishment, if

- the restoration of old floors is critical,
- it is not possible to proceed with a (quick) conventional restoration,
- a flexible solution 'en bloc' (e.g. in case of reutilization) is requested,
- extraordinary requirements (e.g. no activity interruption and no dust emission) are advanced,
- the time factor plays a decisive part.

This unique system is constituted by a heavy-duty vinyl tile which is homogeneous, high-density, pressed and containing low plasticizers. The heavy-duty vinyl tiles are installed without being glued and are connected together thanks to an interlocking procedure, a patented link.

Of course the product is not dangerous for the environment, also because it is incredibly lasting and can be recycled in the production process without any special treatment.

Swifloor SA was founded in 1988, has a turnover of 3 Mio. CHF, a total staff of 6 (15.10.94). Its main activity is producer of a patented industrial flooring system and its main export markets are in Austria, Germany, Italy, Spain, and Hungary.
