Grammaticakis-Neumann Prize 2005

Grammaticakis-Neumann Prize 2005

Call for Nominations

The Photochemistry Section of the Swiss Chemical Society (which acts as the Swiss section of the European Photochemistry Association, EPA) is pleased to invite nominations for the International Grammaticakis-Neumann Prize 2005.

The Prize consists of a diploma and a financial award, and is presented once a year to a young research scientist (< 40) from academia or from industry for outstanding contributions to the science of photochemistry.

The Prize, for which nominations are now being invited, will be presented during the 2005 Fall Meeting of the Swiss Chemical Society. The award ceremony will be followed by a lecture of the laureate which is also to be published in the official EPA journal, #### Photochemical and Photobiological Sciences.

Nominations, accompanied by supporting documentation (curriculum vitae, list of publications, and supporting letters), should be submitted to the executive director of the Swiss Chemical Society by e-mail (with attachments) to Markus.Straub@swiss-chem-soc.ch. The closing date for nominations is October 15, 2004.

Previous laureates of the Grammaticakis-Neumann Prize are Johan Hofkens (2002), Nicola Armaroli (2001), Dirk Guldi (2000), Werner Nau and Eric Vauthey (1999), Axel Griesbeck (1997), Matthew Zimmt (1996), Luisa de Cola (1995), Pedro Aramendia (1994), Mark van der Auweraer (1992), V. Ramamurthy (1991), Wolfgang Rettig (1990), Martin Demuth (1987), Ian Gould and Anthony Harriman (1985).
