By Prof. Dr. Hans Weder, President of the University of Zurich

Dear Participants of the Fall Meeting of the Swiss Chemical Society, dear members of the Swiss Academy of Sciences and of the Polymer Group Switzerland!

A long-lasting and valuable tradition of the Swiss Chemical Society is for young chemists to congregate for the annual Fall Meeting. Graduate students and postdoctoral fellows from all over Switzerland meet to discuss and present their latest research results.

I was very impressed to hear that more than 450 scientific contributions have been submitted to the meeting.

The Swiss Chemical Society as the organizer of the Fall Meeting has come up with a marvellous idea to create a platform for young researchers that allows them to share, discuss and present their results. Please be encouraged to go there. It is also a great pleasure to me that the University of Zurich is hosting this important meeting, thus supporting the scientific community and especially young researchers.

We welcome you to the University of Zurich. I wish you an interesting Fall Meeting with many high quality contributions, a friendly atmosphere, and a successful day.

Hans Weder
