Digital 6th ECP 16 – 18 February 2022

The ECP takes place for the sixth time since 2017 in uninterrupted sequence. For two days, contacts can once again be made in a compact and concentrated manner in the proven partnering.

Once again, SMEs and Start-Ups will meet with large companies, investors and service providers for a business partnering with an attractive accompanying program including keynote speeches, pitches, break-out sessions, workshops, networking and a closing panel.

The digital format will focus on partnering with 40 hours around the clock across all time zones from 16 February 08:00 CET to 18 February, 23:59 CET.

Benefits of the event

The digital 6th ECP offers many advantages:

- get away from coincidence, due to the meetings fixed in advance
- many contacts in a very short amount of time
- interdisciplinary contacts create innovation
- find out in 20-minute meetings whether a follow-up is a good fit

Characteristics of the event

Through ECP business speed dating, the next congenial partner can be found easily via our innovative, digital online partnering platform.

- Companies present their cooperation offers, business ideas, products and services in bilateral live online meetings.
- Business partners can be reached specifically in SSL-secured online meeting rooms. We schedule your meetings automatically according to your availability.

Who will attend?

The participants of the ECP and ECP Summer Summit come from the chemical industry and its processing and user sectors like consumer goods, cosmetics, plastics and adhesives, paints and varnishes, health, nutrition and analytics, as well as from the technological areas chemistry, bioeconomy, biotechnology, digitization, big data and blockchain, nanotechnology, engineering, new materials, renewable raw materials, polymers.

The 6th ECP helps to leave the beaten track, to hang up the not-invented-here syndrome and invites you to get impulses by looking into other disciplines and to find congenial partners for new solutions; to make the world a bit more sustainable

„The ECP itself remains innovative to the highest degree, and for the sixth time in a row without interruption, I’m really looking forward to it!” states Dr. Holger Bengs, the guy with the orange tie and the initiator of the ECP. “For me, the advantage in the digital execution of the ECP is clearly to create greater and more intense togetherness internationally, especially now that there are still travel restrictions: To bring together internationally creative and innovative people who want to make a difference. That’s why digitization is sustainable per se: to transform ideas into much-needed innovations internationally in a short time. This is what the ECP and all its partners stand for, as well as the topic of sustainability.“

Reasons to join 6th ECP

The new launched Global Entrepreneurship Centre (GEC) is now the main sponsor of the ECP and will host special panels and talks on circular economy.

The GEC is the first global innovation hub to focus exclusively on start-ups that contribute to the implementation of international sustainability and climate protection goals. “Our vision is to catalyse the transformation towards a sustainable world. We are prioritising investments in sectors with a commitment to climate protection and a high potential to scale such as building & living, textiles, mobility and agriculture & nutrition. Through our partnership with the ECP, we have valuable access to SusTech startups worldwide. In addition, at ECP we meet corporates and investors who are important partners for u SusTech startups on their way to scale,” explained Friedrich Barth, founder and CEO of the GEC.
